

Seven Days

It feels like heaven when I look from here, surrounding the clouds and keep away my fears

I never believed that it could be unreal, whenever the stars have held me up in tears

You humans regret not having wings like us, I'm spreading them out to show my passion path

My nature is killing me without a spark, how bright should I shine to let your violence stop

Seven days away seven days away seven days away

Standing on my own eating worms and my destiny, sitting down the line my lonely heart

Seven days away in the desert of liberty, crawling through the storm my divine soul

Seven days away seven days away seven days away

Reaching out for love in the planet of cruelty, letting in despair your evil thorn
